UOB Indonesia cultivating the next generation of Indonesian artists through its Art Programme

Opens 2019 UOB Painting of the Year competition for entries

Jakarta, 17 May 2019 – PT Bank UOB Indonesia (UOB Indonesia) today launched the 2019 UOB Painting of the Year (POY) Competition with a sharing session to encourage emerging Indonesian artists in their pursuit of a career in art. Held at the National Museum of Indonesia, the event was attended by members of the art community and university art students.

At the sharing session, 2019 UOB POY chief judge Mr Agung Hujatnikajennong, 2018 UOB Southeast Asian Painting of the Year winner, Mr Suvi Wahyudianto; contemporary artist, Ms Arahmaiani; and art curator, Ms Alia Swastika, shared their insights into the country's art scene. They also provided views on how art competitions offer opportunities for artists to showcase their talent and to further their careers.

Mr Enrico Tanuwidjaja, UOB Indonesia's economist, and Mr Joshua Simanjutak, Deputy Marketing from the Indonesian Agency for Creative Economy (BEKRAF), also shared their perspectives on how the art industry contributes to Indonesia's economic growth.

Mr Kevin Lam, President Director of UOB Indonesia, said that the Bank hopes that young, aspiring artists will be moved by the stories shared by those committed to the development of Indonesia's art community.

"With the help of award-winning artists and industry experts sharing their knowledge and experience, we hope young artists will be inspired to let their creativity flow and flourish. Through the UOB POY programme, we aim to cultivate the next generation of Indonesian artists by giving them a platform to express their fresh perspectives and to play a vital role in the progress of the Indonesian art. This in turn enriches lives and strengthens societal bonds which are core to the Bank's long-term commitment to support the communities in which we operate," Mr Lam said.
